Purchasing User Story

As a user of this web application, I want to be able to purchase tickets for concerts I'm interested in. I want to be able to see the lowest starting price displayed in the web app for every displayed concert as long as tickets are still available. When clicking on the button that accompanies every concert, I will be redirected to the Ticketmaster website, where I can check the expanded range of ticket availability and purchase tickets. Upon clicking the purchase button, I will see a pop-up window to appear on the web application mainpage when the next time I open the web application. The pop-up window will ask me to inform the system whether I purchase the ticket or not. If I answer "yes", the web application will ask me, after the date and time of the purchased concert has passed, (through another pop-up window) whether I liked the artist, genre, and venue via a 5-star-based rating system. This information will be used to better refine future recommendations.
